

Kitsap County Buildable Lands Public Participation Plan

Introduction

The Department of Community Development (DCD), in coordination with local cities, is undertaking a review and evaluation of Kitsap County's Buildable Lands Program. Kitsap County is one of seven counties required by the State's Growth Management Act (RCW 36.70A.215 and WAC 365-196-315) to complete a review and evaluation of development trends and urban land supply every 8-years. Specifically, the purpose of the program review is to:

- "Look back" over the last six-years (2013-2019) to evaluate whether achieved densities (development trends) are consistent with relevant development assumptions and objectives in Kitsap's Countywide Planning Polices (CPPs) and local comprehensive plans.
- "Look forward" to determine if there is sufficient buildable land capacity (land supply) in urban areas to accommodate the county's 20-year targets for:
  - Commercial employment;
  - Industrial employment; and
  - Housing units to accommodate population.
- If necessary, identify reasonable measures to address inconsistencies between:
  - achieved and planned densities; or
  - land capacity and growth targets.

Local policies related to the Buildable Lands Program are found in Element B of Kitsap's CPPs. The policies require the County and local cities to:

- use consistent, agreed-upon methodology to estimate the land supply available to accommodate future residential, commercial, and industrial growth (Element B (1)(a));
- participate in a program to monitor and evaluate the effectiveness of their respective Comprehensive Plans (Element B (1)(b));
- establish procedures for resolving disputes in collection and analysis of data (Element B (1)(c)); and
- if necessary, implement appropriate reasonable measures within its jurisdictional boundary if inconsistencies are identified between development trends, land supply, and planned growth in their community (Element B (2)).

This Public Participation Plan outlines the approach Kitsap County will take to provide opportunities for public participation early and often throughout the Buildable Lands Program review process. The plan also provides key contact information and web addresses to ask questions or access information. This plan is a working document and will be adjusted, as needed.
