DOES IT EVER FEEL LIKE YOUR PARENTS JUST DON'T GET it?

is it tough to talk with adults about the important things?

LiFT is a 6-hour program that brings teens together in a safe space where you'll learn to talk with the adults in your life about the tough stuff. At the same time, your adult(s)* will learn how to listen to you and support you to reach your goals.

- Have fun talking with your friends (in a separate space from the adults)
- Figure out how to communicate with and be heard by your parents
- Learn how to take care of your health

LiFT was developed by Planned Parenthood of the Great Northwest and the Hawaiian Islands and was supported by Award No. TP2AH000026 from the Office of Population Affairs (OPA). Its contents are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of OPA or HHS.

Research shows that a strong connection between teens and their supportive adult(s) is a superpower that helps teens achieve their goals, and supports healthy teen outcomes, including: decreased rates of unwanted teen pregnancy, STIs, depression, and drug and alcohol use, and increased school success.^{1,2}

Although teens and adults alike say they want to talk with one another about sexuality, many families say that they feel uncomfortable and ill-equipped to have conversations with each other about sexual health topics³, and this makes building strong connections very challenging.

Linking Families and Teens (LiFT) is a new program offered by Planned Parenthood to help families share their values, build the family bond, and talk about the tough stuff – including sexual health and healthy relationships. LiFT, (available in English and Spanish), includes an engaging and interactive 6-hour workshop, one follow-up phone call, and 12 weekly text messages for both teens between the ages of 13-19 and their supportive adult(s)*.

IMPACT

In qualitative data collected at the booster call, three- and 12- months following the program, youth and parenting adult participants say they are having more tough talks, and credit LiFT with building their confidence and skills to have conversations around sexuality and relationships; helping to increase trust between family members, and to be more open and empathetic with one another.

These results are supported by the preliminary data from 3- follow-up surveys, which show that, compared to survey-only participants:

- LiFT youth and adults communicate more frequently about sexuality values, thoughts & feelings with their parenting adult;
- LiFT adults communicate more frequently about sexuality and pregnancy with their youth;
- LiFT youth are more likely to feel competent preventing pregnancy, and;
- LiFT adults are more likely to support their young person seeking sexual healthcare.

WANT TO LEARN MORE? Interested in participating? Contact Erica White at Erica.white@ppgnci.org for more information. Sign up for LiFT in Kitsap County: www.bit.do/LiFTsignup

*Supportive adult can include biological parent, foster parent, caregiver, grandparent, aunt or uncle, or another important adult in the life of that teen. These results include participants living in rural communities of 50,000 or fewer.

PARTICIPANT EXPERIENCE

“This program has taught me to be open to communicate about the ‘tough stuff’ with my girls. My daughter now comes to me with questions or experiences and I listen with an open mind, no judgment. I greatly appreciate how this LiFT program has helped open up the communication in my family.” LiFT Supportive Adult

“My mom and I always fight about me spending time with my boyfriend. After LiFT, we were able to use the skills that we learned to agree on a decision we both felt good about without fighting. It was such a nice change!”
~LiFT Teen

“We talk more since we participated in LiFT. I learned that it is ok to be nervous to talk to my kids about topics around sex, and now me and my teen are more open to talking about these things. We are more open about sex and have been able to talk about preventing pregnancy and drug use.” ~LiFT Supportive Adult

“It’s helped my adult and I gain more confidence in one another. I feel like I got to know more about them and now I know I could trust them with anything.” ~LiFT Teen

OLYMPIA – Beginning Friday, April 17, some Washington residents can apply through the Department of Social and Health Services for emergency cash assistance to help meet their immediate needs. As a result of Governor Inslee’s emergency declaration in the face of the COVID-19 pandemic, the federal government has approved implementing the Disaster Cash Assistance Program, or DCAP, in Washington state.

The Governor’s declaration of a statewide emergency and subsequent proclamation on March 18 enables DSHS to offer DCAP benefits to people who are not eligible for other cash assistance programs. The assistance is available to all Washington families and people without children who meet the income and resource limits of the program. DSHS estimates more than 175,000 households may be eligible for this assistance.

“Having access to this emergency aid is critically important to helping people meet their immediate, basic needs, like shelter costs, utilities, clothing, minor medical care, household supplies and transportation costs for work,” explained Babs Roberts, director of DSHS’ Community Services Division. “We’re pleased Governor Inslee made these funds available so that we can extend the benefits to Washingtonians who are most in need during this unprecedented time.”

This cash assistance is available to Washington residents regardless of citizenship status, and does not require applicants to provide a Social Security number. Eligible households will receive their DCAP benefits for one month in a 12-month period during an emergency. The benefit amount depends on household size, income and need, ranging from a maximum of $363 for a single person to a maximum of $1,121 for a household of eight or more people. Once approved, people will receive their DCAP benefits on an existing Electronic Benefit Transfer, or EBT, card or a new EBT card will be sent via U.S. Mail.

People can apply for DCAP online at WashingtonConnection.org and then call the Customer Service Contact Center at 877-501-2233 to complete the required interview. People can also call 877-501-2233 to complete the entire application process over the phone. Due to much higher than normal call volumes, people are asked to call before 11 a.m. and to keep in mind that the busiest call times are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

For the latest COVID-19 benefits-related information, check the DSHS website, Facebook and Twitter accounts.

Dear Friends,

Domestic violence is on the rise in Kitsap County. It's important that family and friends know what to do in order to provide support to someone they know is being abused.

YWCA is the only State Certified domestic violence provider in Kitsap County. Professionally trained Domestic Violence Advocates are available 24/7 by phone and text to survivors, their children, their friends, and their family. They are also available to community service providers and to the community at large if anyone recognizes that someone may be experiencing abuse.

This is your friend, this is your family member, this is your loved one. Chances are, you know some of the dynamics that are going on.

It is important to continue to share YWCA contact information – especially the Hotline number – and to share the safety planning tips we have made available through social media. But, the number one thing anyone can do to help vulnerable individuals right now is to stay connected. When survivors have access to at least one supportive person – that can make all the difference. It is a lifeline for survivors.

There has been a social media movement of posts sharing code words and phrases for anyone to use in order to reach out for help. It is being shared on a broad platform, inviting people who do not know one another to communicate their needs.

While it is commonly recommended to create code words to center safety, YWCA Kitsap County does not recommend sharing broadly.

If you do want to take part in social media code word postings, please consider the following suggestions:

1. Not all code phrases and words work for everyone – for example, not all survivors use makeup and not all survivors are women. Choose a code that makes sense and can be defended if questioned by the abusive person.
2. Keep in mind that while posts should appear to be broad, they should be very intentional for that one person you know needs help.
3. Do not continue ongoing communication on a platform that can be easily accessed by the abusive person. If possible, move the conversation to a secret text app where messages can be deleted permanently or an email the abusive person doesn't know about. Make sure the survivor only accesses this email through an incognito browser if possible. Reach out to the YWCA to learn more about this.
4. Avoid long conversations. This can put the person in danger - even if it is all in code. Those maintaining power and control may be monitoring or may not permit the survivor to access the device they are on and the survivor may be taking a risk when reaching out to you.
5. Call the YWCA Hotline if you can communicate with your friend/family when they cannot. Domestic Violence Advocates will offer safety planning and resources for you to communicate to the survivor.
6. Stick to the simple code you offer. Do not call the police unless given permission, but do call if you believe the person is in immediate danger.
7. If safe to do so, share YWCA's Hotline: 1.800.500.5513 and Text Line: 1.360.277.7607 whenever possible so survivors can access safety planning and help directly from professionals.

8. The most important thing you can do for a survivor is to keep communication when/if possible. Listen without judgement, tell them you care about them, and encourage them to think about what safety looks like for them and their children.

Example Post:

If you are isolated with an unhealthy or abusive person, or if you feel sad, fearful, or worried while staying at home with someone, you can reach out to me any time. Here are some CODES you can use to let me know what you need. Please phrase your messages to me any way that is comfortable:

"I am interested in your RED CANDLES. You can ship to (insert your address)." = Call 911

"I love your ORANGE CANDLES!" = I am fleeing. Call YWCA for emergency shelter/resources to share with me.

"Your BLUE CANDLES are my favorite." = Email me so I can talk safely.

"I would love to have some GREEN CANDLES in my house." = Check up on me.

I can change the codes at any time if it's better for you. If social media isn't safe for you, email me at ____.

You are not alone. There is help. Call YWCA Kitsap County 24/7: 1-800-500-5513 or text YWCA 24/7: 1-360-277-7607. Visit ywcakitsap.org for more information. Their services are free and confidential.

I want to acknowledge the amazing support from our community members who have come together in very creative ways to make sure everyone has access to the resources they need. We will continue to navigate this together.

Helping Children Cope During and After a Disaster

A Resource for Parents and Caregivers

The amount of damage caused from a disaster can be overwhelming. The destruction of homes and separation from school, family, and friends can create a great amount of stress and anxiety for children. They may not fully understand what is going on. A child's reaction and signs of stress may vary depending on age and previous experiences and typical coping behavior with stress.

What You Can Do to Help Children Cope with a Disaster

Set a good example by managing your own stress through healthy lifestyle choices, such as eating healthy, exercising regularly, getting plenty of sleep, and avoiding drugs and alcohol. When you are prepared, rested, and relaxed, you can respond better to unexpected events and can make decisions in the best interest of your loved ones.

The following tips can help reduce stress before, during, and after a disaster or traumatic event.

Before

- Assure your children that you are prepared to keep them safe.
- Review safety plans before a disaster or emergency happens. Having a plan will increase your children's confidence and help give them a sense of control.

During

- Stay calm and reassure your children.
- Talk to your children about what is happening in a way that they can understand. Keep it simple and appropriate for each child's age.

After

- Give your children opportunities to talk about what they went through. Encourage them to share concerns and ask questions.
- Encourage your children to take action directly related to the disaster so they feel a sense of control. For example, children can help others after a disaster, such as volunteering to help community or family members in a safe environment. Children should NOT participate in disaster cleanup activities for health and safety reasons.
- Because parents, teachers, and other adults see children in different situations, it is important for them to work together to share information about how each child is coping after a traumatic event.
- Help your children to have a sense of structure, which can make them feel more at ease or provide a sense of familiarity. Once schools and child care opens again, help them return to their regular activities.

American Idol Night.

Have two people in your family be the judges and the rest can be contestants. If you have a smaller family (and you don't mind embarrassing yourself), invite some neighbors over to join in the fun. A karaoke machine is a fun way to spice this night up as well.

Guest of Honor Night.

Have this night be focused on one person in your family or outside your family. Create a unique list of questions to ask this person during dinner that highlights things about their personality unbeknownst to the rest of the family. Another option is to invite a willing guest to share in their area of expertise. Leave time for your kids to ask them questions.

Home Video Night.

All kids love to see themselves when they were younger. Pop in a tape of their younger days or create a slideshow using pictures of them growing up. Kids are also fascinated by their parents' wedding tapes. Just make sure to fast forward if your video is 6 hours long. The point is not to bore them to death.

Sign up to volunteer at a local place that needs help. Specifying your volunteer work to something your child is interested in is a great way to start. If your child loves animals, volunteer at the humane society.

Individual Dinner Night.

Having a family with multiple children can often make it hard to spend one-on-one time together. Have a night where you and your spouse take your children out individually and let them be the center of attention for the night.

Backyard Campout Night.

Camping doesn't have to take place in the forest. Popping up the tent in the backyard is a great way to have a convenient vacation. Remember to include all the things that you normally would at a campsite: S'mores, flashlights, sleeping bags, etc.

Concert Night.

Taking your kids to a concert exposes them to music/culture that they might not hear otherwise. Outdoor concerts in the summer are great because they are more relaxed. In the winter, take your kids to a symphony. Sometimes orchestras customize their concerts to put a twist on some songs that your kids might know!

Dessert Out Night.

Surprise your kids by eating dinner at home and announcing that you're taking them out for dessert! If it's warm, head to an outdoor ice cream parlor and if it's colder, go out for warm apple pie.

$5 Dollar Shopping Night.

Take your kids to a store such as Target, Wal-Mart, or Dollar Tree and give them each $5. Make it a contest to see who can buy the best item for the family just using that amount. Let them know that they can buy numerous items and combining them to make their final purchase. (e.g., buying letter stickers and spelling out your family's name on a small scrapbook).

13. Costume Night.

Go to a consignment shop or Goodwill and have them pick out a funny outfit. Then, go for a picnic in the park as a group of random personalities. Make sure to take pictures of this night!

15. Formal Etiquette Night.

Have your kids dress in their best and get out the good china! Take this opportunity to teach your kids some lessons at the table. This will also be a great time of laughing while your kids try to play grown up. Talking in British accents and pretending you're having afternoon tea is fun as well.

16. Twisted Bowling/Miniature Golf Night.

Sometimes these activities can get old after a while, so add a little twist. Have specific instructions for each hole or frame. For instance, "At this hole, you have to swing the putter behind your back." Or, "During this frame, try to only knock down the two pins on the end."

17. Picture Night.

Have a fun photo shoot with your kids by inviting a friend over who does photography for a hobby. Don't just stick to classic poses and matching outfits. Make sure you allow your kids' goofy personalities to shine through. Take them to the store and let them pick their favorites to print off.

19. Interactive Movie Night.

Watch a movie together as a family. Some ways to keep this family-friendly and interactive include: watching a film with a controversial message and discussing it afterwards or hanging a sheet on a wall outside of your house and having your own drive-in type show.

20. A How-To Night.

Learn something together! Some ideas could be: how to cook a certain kind of food, change a tire/the oil in a car, plant a garden (the kids can pick out the seeds), start a campfire, create a budget (save money) or play a sport (golf).

Jessica Guidry wanted to share the following announcement:

Child Care, Youth Development, and Summer Day Camps During the COVID-19 Outbreak guidance now available. As Washington State progresses through the phases of reopening, more families will return to work. This means the availability of care and youth development opportunities are critical as we move through the summer. In order to reduce the risk of virus transmission between children, youth, and staff; businesses, non-profits, cities, counties, and other entities planning for summer 2020 should use this guidance for all programs serving groups of children and youth from multiple households. Authorization to open specific types of programs is governed by Governor Inslee's Safe Start Washington Recovery Plan and the ongoing guidance issued under the Plan. In keeping with the public health approach, it is anticipated that this guidance will be in effect through the summer months.

Full guidance here.

Important things to note:

- Any day camp that includes sports related activities must also follow forthcoming guidance for youth sports.
- Future guidance will cover:
 - Overnight camps
 - Youth sports and athletics (example: leagues, recreation teams, clubs)
 - Activities included as part of K-12 basic education or special education programs

Have Fun, Stay Healthy

Let's keep on the path to recovery!

As some parks and outdoor activities reopen, it's still critical to take steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19. We're not out of the woods yet.

Stick close to home

Stay within your household group

Practice physical distancing

Avoid crowds

Bathrooms may not be open. Plan ahead and bring soap or sanitizer.

Pack out trash and pet waste. Keep our parks clean for all to enjoy.

IV. Grant and Funding Update

Laura provided an update on the grant recommendations for our annual grant/RFP (Request for Proposals of the Programs That Reduce and Prevent the Impact of Adverse Childhood Experiences Through Building Resiliency) status. The Board approved by vote the recommendations of the Review Committee. Recommendation were sent to the Board of County Commissioners who will determine the funding to be offered to the approved applicant.

V. UPDATING OUR BYLAWS

The proposed Bylaw revisions were presented, and it was recommended by the Board Members present that we approve the Bylaws as recommended. We did not have a Quorum present so we will have a vote when we do have a quorum. It was requested that Laura check to see if we can have a vote by email given the virtual status of most work now.

VI. WORKPLAN OVERVIEW & GOAL SETTING

The Board reviewed the current Work Plan and noted the goal assignments to each committee. The Board reviewed the Committee Descriptions and volunteered for committees. The Board will hold committee meetings in June to review their Goals to work on. Next steps will be set.
